

TEN WAYS

to GET the MOST from your

Writing Center

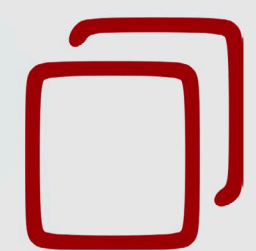

23

Schedule early. Once the semester hits full swing, our schedule is often booked solid 3-4 days out. Make an appointment up to a week in advance to find a time that works with your schedule.

Register with WCOOnline. Save time by registering on our system to book appointments. Students can learn more about registering for our system in the Appointments section of our website.

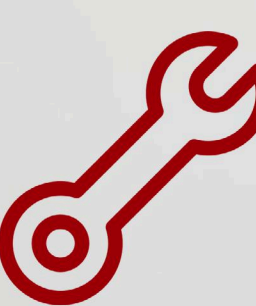

Check all 3 schedules. Since East campus is always the fullest schedule, make sure to switch locations in the drop-down menu at the top of the schedule to check for available slots online (for graduate and commuter students only) and on West campus.

Choose a coach that's right for you. We have over 25 coaches who come from different academic backgrounds. Read bios by clicking on an appointment slot in WCOOnline to find a coach who fits best.

Expect to become a better writer. Our coaches encourage students to engage with their own writing process, thus helping improve their writing skills for the long haul instead of just fixing "mistakes."

Attend our workshops. Learn about topics like editing, documentation, productivity, and argument in our workshops. Pick up a workshop flyer in the Writing Center or access our schedule on the APU Event Calendar.

Read our handouts. Anyone can access handouts on the Resources page of our website. Use them to develop skills in brainstorming, revision, sentence structure, research, organization, punctuation, and documentation.

Send us feedback. Loved your appointment? Have a suggestion for a workshop? Want to see some changes? Leave feedback to help us better meet the needs of APU students.

Learn about graduate-level writing. Access our Graduate Writing Website for assistance with academic writing and dissertations.

Go ahead...take some candy. Everyone needs a lollipop once in a while.

upcoming workshops

APA Documentation & Style

This workshop covers the basic documentation style used in social sciences such as psychology, nursing, and education, as well as the natural sciences.

Nov 30, 5:30-7 (online)
Dec 4, 2:30-4 (MMED 5)

Revise, Edit, & Proofread

Come learn helpful strategies for revising, editing, and proofreading your writing projects, as well as several ways to get editorial feedback.

Nov 19, 3-4:30 (MMED 3)

Doctoral Workshop Series, continued

*Part 3: IRBs and Research Methods
For doctoral students writing or preparing to write their dissertation proposal.*

Nov 23, 12-1:30 (online)

*Part 4: Results, Conclusions, and Revisions
For doctoral students who have completed their dissertation proposal.*

Dec 2, 12-1:30 (online)